Real Innovation Making a Real Difference

Tier 1 Research Institution

At Florida International University, students and faculty are challenged to find innovative solutions to global problems. Our researchers create neural-enabled prosthetics, conduct hurricane research and solve infrastructure issues.

Highlights

- Awarded R1 Carnegie Research Classification for the highest research activity
- 60+ patents awarded to faculty, staff and alumni
- $100 million+ research awards granted
- Top 15 among public universities granted U.S. patent in 2018 (National Academy of Inventors and Intellectual Property Owners, 2018).

Home of the Aquanauts

Marine biologists, scientists and oceanographers live underwater for 10-day missions collecting data for eight to nine hours per day. In a small 43 foot-long laboratory space, these “aquanauts” live, work, eat and sleep more than 60 feet below the ocean’s surface. Research revolves around ocean health, including warming water temperatures, pollution, coral health and testing marine life for viruses and diseases.

Real Exploration Producing Real Results

FIU’s Aquarius Reef Base – located five miles off the coast of Key Largo in the Florida Keys – is the world’s only permanent underwater research laboratory. The Medina Aquarius Program is dedicated to oceanic studies, preserving coral reefs and marine ecosystems and developing state-of-the-art undersea technology.

Also at Aquarius:

- NASA astronauts train for International Space Station missions.
- The U.S. Navy conducts readiness training missions.
- Marine biologists and scientists conduct oceanic research projects.

Aquarius has supported more than 120 missions and has produced over 600 peer-reviewed scientific publications.

The place to be for hospitality and business majors

- Ranked #9 for business school ROI by Bloomberg Businessweek
- Ranked #2 for international business by U.S. News & World Report
- Ranked #3 for international MBA by U.S. News & World Report
- Named as one of the top hospitality schools in the world by QS World University Rankings

Real Global Thinkers

FIU is focused on preparing all students with the skills and multicultural knowledge they need to rise to new challenges in the global economy. Through its top international business program, FIU develops global business leaders and entrepreneurs with a strong understanding of the cultural, historical, economic and political skills that the world is looking for.

More than 1,000 multinational companies call Miami home, and it is consistently recognized as the "Best U.S. City for Doing Business in Latin America" by América Economía. With the largest concentration of international banks in the United States, Miami is the home base for many Fortune 500 companies, including Marriott Hotels, Royal Caribbean International, American Airlines and many more. Known for its hospitality industry, Miami hosts the luxurious five-day Food Network & Cooking Channel South Beach Wine & Food Festival. This star-studded event allows FIU students the incredible opportunity to help plan and execute an industry-leading celebration.

South Beach Wine & Food Festival

- 95+ events
- 400+ chefs, winemakers, spirit producers and culinary personalities
- 1,200+ student volunteers
- $30 million+ raised since 2002 for the Chaplin School of Hospitality & Tourism Management and the Southern Wine & Spirits Beverage Management Center

Real Experience

South Beach Wine & Food Festival (SOBEWFF®)

The Food Network & Cooking Channel South Beach Wine & Food Festival (SOBEWFF®) is a national, star-studded, five-day destination event showcasing the talents of the world's most renowned wine and spirits producers, chefs and culinary personalities.

Every year this event provides an opportunity for students to connect with internship opportunities and network with future employers.

Catherine Willy, a student from Kenya and information technology major, managed the volunteer staff tent, clocking volunteers in and out and ensuring that the tent was organized and volunteers were fed and taken care of.

"The best thing about my experience with volunteering at SOBEWFF® was meeting new people and moreover [the] new experience of customer service, which has taught me selflessness and networking. I would do it over and over again," said Willy.
